Letter from the Mayor

Dear Washingtonians,

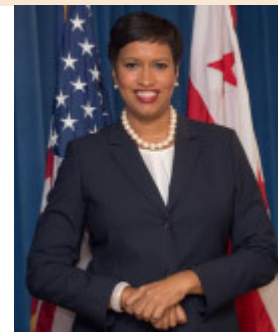

A fair shot means different things to different Washingtonians. For some, it means affordable housing or a robust and equitable public transportation system, for others it means accessible job training programs and safer neighborhoods. For me, a fair shot means all of those things and more. It means that regardless of who you are or where you live, if you work hard and play by the rules, you can succeed in Washington, DC.

This week, we're spreading the word about two new programs designed to give more Washingtonians a fair shot.

The #FairShot Free Rides Taxi-to-Rail program was launched in June to help improve transportation equity in neighborhoods east of the Anacostia River. This innovative program provides passengers with a free taxicab ride of up to $10 to or from ten Metro stations. Last week, we expanded the program to also include grocery stores, libraries, and recreation centers. Learn more HERE.
